[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN REPORTER.)

Works, Mines, and Justice, and a large party of visitors left Redfern last night at 9 o'clock for the open

The party arrived at Bungendore about half-past 8, and the Ministers were received on the platform by a large number of local residents, amongst whom were Messrs. Rutledge, D. Leahy, C. A. Gerrard, J. H. Watson, and J. Dale. Mr. Rutledge presented the Minister for Works with an address of welcome signed by a number of local residents, in which the address was congratulatory on the completion of the railway extension to O. Smeayes. With regard to the railway, the address contained the following passage:—"Although this extension may for a time be injurious to trade in this town, we feel sure that even a slight-minded citizen, with the welfare of this colony at heart, must experience great satisfaction at seeing the country produce transported with such promptness and ease into more rapid communication with the metropolis."

On returning to the hotel, an influential local deputation was introduced to Mr. Sutherland by Mr. O'Sullivan. The members of the deputation drew the Minister's attention to the bad state of the roads in the district, and especially the roads leading to Lake George, Black Range, and Cepelin's Flat. They pointed out that the ranges and the mountains on the borders of three different road districts, the superintendents were unable to pay the necessary attention to the roads, and it was requested that a superintendent should be appointed for the district. Another requirement was a telegraph office at the important mining towns, Cepelin's Flat, there being only a telephone there. It was also suggested that the Government should encourage the carriage of produce should be reduced, as the farmers were unable to send their produce to Sydney on account of the high rates. It was also suggested that the Government should

The health of the Ministry was subsequently drunk, and they thought they had better return to Quesabeyan. The narrowness of the line which was drawn to do so was due to the distance from Quesabeyan, by a train of some 17 miles, passed through country of a wild and picturesque description, which has comparatively little agricultural value. This would be chiefly useful as providing an outlet for produce from the Quesabeyan and Monaro districts, which are important centres in the pastoral industry of the surrounding country. It passes through some very beautiful scenery, more especially in the neighbourhood of the Macintyre River, where the country is of a varied and magnificent description. Owing to the line being heavily traversed with gravel, travelling over it is peculiarly easy, and a very large portion of the work seems to have been executed in the level, the over Half-way Creek, and up a rather steep incline, at the summit of which is tunnel No. 1. Emerging from this tunnel, and descending the ridge, Sparrow Creek is crossed at 184m. 20c., the line twisting about and skirting the hillsides to the Molonglo station, where it is again reached. Just beyond the bridge where this street is the only intermediate stopping place, called Molonglo at 185m. 31c., where there is a platform 33m. 30c. in length, and with 12c. in height, for passenger trains, together with a level for the arrival and departure of main road. The engineer's quarters erected here, on this side, will be used as a gatekeeper's residence. From thence the railway generally follows the direction of the Molonglo creek, and crosses it at 186m. 40c., and 186m. 45c., and then crosses the creeks to the same river, runs through two more tunnels at 186m. 46c. and 190m. 63c. respectively, crossing over the Gundaroo-road, and thence over the Queanbeyan River near the bridge at 191m. 63c., and then crosses the river, which is situated the temporary terminus at Queanbeyan. Upon entering the station-yard at this place there is a large overbridge 24ft. wide, at 193m. 77c. The passenger station is a large building, 100m. 00c. in length, with a central gabled and iron roof, has to the approach from the north a portico and wide verandah of light and elegant appearance, having double iron columns with ornate capitals and a balcony above. And also a spacious verandah to the platform side. The total length of the station is 100m. 00c. in length over all being 185ft. It contains a general waiting room, 21ft. x 16ft.; and parcels room and ladies' waiting room, each 26ft. x 10ft.; also ticket, stationmaster's, and baggage rooms, and a ladies' room, 10ft. x 10ft. The ladies' room, and latrines at either end, being separated from the main building by yards in which are erected convenient sheds. The platform is 350ft. x 12ft., and there is also a small platform 50ft. x 12ft. at the end of the line, and the Cooma end of the platform is an engine-tank 26ft. square, built upon timber framing, with an engine pit 40ft. long. A very comfortable house for the stationmaster, situated at the end of the platform, with iron roof, containing a kitchen, with hall, lobby, and parlour. Two good carriage rooms, built on piles 72ft. x 22ft., of timber and galvanised iron, has two outside uncovered platforms, each 84ft. x 15ft. In addition to these there are two outside covered platforms, each being 56ft. x 15ft. The building is the length of the building, back and front, together with weatherboard office 13ft. x 12ft., and double siding for loading purposes. The sheep and cattle racks, yards, and pens, are all built on piles, and are 10ft. x 10ft. and 10ft. x 10ft. up side, opposite and midway between the passenger station and goods warehouse. At the end of the station yard there is a level crossing over two lines of rail, where a cottages for the engine driver, and a small house for the engine driver, will be utilised as a gatekeeper's residence. Underground rain-water tanks have been provided at this place, and separate approach roads made to both the passenger station and the goods warehouse, and a road to another road connecting the yards of these buildings. The fencing throughout of the line consists of two rails and four wires of No. 6 gauge. Messrs. Joseph Jordan and George Johnston are the owners of the railway, and the buildings at Queanbeyan and Messrs. Johnston and O'Connell for the general works upon this extension.

THE BANQUET.

In the afternoon a grand banquet was held in the railway goods shed, which was decorated for the occasion. About 150 guests were present, including John Sutherland, Messrs. Clarke, Farnell, and Collier, occupying seats on his right hand, and Mr. O'Sullivan, Mr. Abigail, and Mr. Teeco on his left hand. The following gentlemen were present: Messrs. H. Wright, Messrs. Richmond, Dawson, Jamieson, McKellar, J. C. Moore, Richardson, Wm. Price, F. Campbell, J. G. Harris, J. Dixie, John Bull, N. S. Bull, M'Nanna, T. Parr, O. Connell, and Mr. Sydney regretting his inability to attend. The toast of the evening was "The Ministry." The usual local toasts having been honoured.

The CHAIRMAN proposed the toast of "The Ministry," saying that he was sure he was only expressing the opinion of all present in saying that it was gratifying to see the members of the Ministry amongst themselves. He did not intend to touch upon political matters in any shape or form, and he believed that the present Ministry would do most for the interests of the colony and the well-being of the country. He believed that they

the pastoralists of the country, were true or false. Having been brought in close contact with the people who lived in these parts, and having had the opportunity of seeing them in speech, learning their experience, and having received their advice as to future legislation which would be of benefit to these parts of the colony, he was sure they had accumulated a store of knowledge which would not only benefit them individually, but the Ministry collectively. (Applause.) The colony was spending £130,000 annually in the extermination of the blacks, and he hoped that the Government would not continue to spend this money year after year. He believed, Mr. Abigail, was well weighing the subject, and he was sure the measure he had introduced in accordance with the permission of the Cabinet into the next Parliament would be of great benefit to the colony, and a great expenditure of money. If they, as a Ministry, could achieve this much good, they would at any rate show they had been useful to some purpose. They were no doubt well aware that the bill was a measure which would be of great benefit to the colony, and he hoped this bill would be passed on such lines as to commend itself to the people from all ends of the colony to the other. No preference would be shown to any particular section of the colony, and if the bill was framed on these lines the Ministry would have done some good. The necessity for a Local Self Government Bill had long been talked of, and although the Government had not yet introduced it, he was sure they would be doing their duties, but would not neglect this measure. The Bill had been considered by the Government for the last five councils, and it was in a forward state for submission to the House. (Hear, hear.) The Government would also endeavour to introduce a measure which would amend legislation in a short time, and to introduce some large useful public works for the employment of the people of this country. He also trusted the Railway Bill which was now before the House would be passed by the Government in Parliament. The Ministry were thankful to the people of the country for the large measure of support which they had accorded them through their representatives in Parliament, and he hoped to obtain the support of the majority in Parliament next year, and to introduce some more useful legislation. (Hear, hear.) He had been much surprised with the town of Queanbeyan, and he trusted it was not too late to name this district would continue to be a prosperous one. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. ARAUJO also responded to the toast. He said that he had such confidence in the gentlemen forming the Government of the country at the present time that he was always prepared to stand forward to respond for them because they represented the form of government which set forward the beneficial government of the people, by the people, for the people. He was pleased to think that no one could be so much in error as to think that the country attached no political significance to the presence of his colleagues and himself. They came to rejoice over the arrival of the railway in this district, and their reason for doing so was because the railway opened up the agricultural, pastoral, and mining interests of this vast district. One of the chief reasons for the interest at the spread of the railway was the hope that by its progress the people of the country would be able to produce for themselves the far west, and the experience gained there, that they would be able to frame such legislation as would bring about the best results for the country. The Quesanwey district was rich in mineral wealth; and he was pained to see this, as he perceived, was being squandered. He had made some reflections on those who had occupied his position in the past, he was bound to say that the mining industry had not received the attention it deserved. He was determined that he would do better, and he was determined it should have that consideration which it deserved, and by which the country would benefit so much. He was not going to neglect the interests of secondary importance; but he was going to make them of first importance. The duties of wardens had usually been neglected, and he was going to make them of first importance, as it was necessary that the men who undertook such duties should give proper consideration to the mining interests, he was going to change this. He hoped

This being the case, we may look for a new edition of the battle which has been twice fought before. There is no doubt that the question of the elections, and in Parliament. For, however specific may be the issue immediately submitted to discussion and debate, the general fiscal question is sure to be brought in. But it is no time to underestimate any attempt at fair discussion. The question cannot be set at rest by the stilted and one-sidedness of the advocates of one side, and, since discussion must proceed, it is desirable that our young politicians should not only bend their minds to the question, but also be prepared to give their own views. They should take their share in the somewhat tedious work of educating public opinion, and counteracting erroneous views. Mr. Wise has certainly bestowed much pains on his pamphlet, and it is to be hoped that the popular appreciation of his services, and the marks of his worthiness, will be shown by the success of his cause. His pamphlet, containing as it does his latest contribution to the controversy, will read with no little interest by the advocates of both sides, and probably by many who are not so strongly committed to either of the men whose views it most strongly condemns.

as running about 18 per cent. of the total. At the present time the principal source of copper ore in the South Australian Mallee is the Moonta mine in South Australia, which produces about 250 tons of copper ore of 20 to 24 per cent. weight. We see a heap of what looks like sand, and are informed that it is ore from the Moonta mine that has been through the process of being calcined, and is now a fine, bright, yellowish colored sand, called malancillo, and is not so good in quality, only giving about 10 or 12 per cent. of copper. The whole of the ore from Australian ores are brought along the company's line in vessels belonging to the Black Diamond Mining Co. The vessels there is an arrangement mutually made for the conveyance of copper ore between the South Australian and the Hunter River. The fact of the vessels being used for bringing down the ore is a good one, because the coal freight being less, it is a saving, and the vessels would not do very well—that is, if the vessels had been used down to the Hunter simply in ballast. Walking down a sea port, and Port Waratah in ballast, every

When the first furnace is filled, the ore is placed around the heating furnaces, into which it is dropped from above. The furnaces are made of iron upper. The heat in these furnaces is maintained by direct saplings. The ore is kept here for 24 hours, during which time it is slowly burnt. The ore is then dropped out below, and put in the open air again. It is then burnt in a dark burnt colour. The heat is brought through the fire itself. This fire is at one end of the furnace only. While in the furnace it is constantly stirred with iron paddles and rabbits, with the object of attracting the heat to the ore. The ore is then removed and heated in this way at a time. The ore is then removed from the reducing furnaces, where it is melted as quickly as possible, the metal sinking to the bottom while the slag floats on top. The slag is then removed and is called slag, when cold, is hard and heavy, and is very much used in the neighbourhood for the purpose of road-making. The metal is then poured into a ladle, and is then poured into the reducing furnace a second time, where it is melted again. The metal becomes denser. When the metal is sufficiently heavy, it is run out into moulds of sand, and now appears in the shape of a bar. The metal is then used for the purpose of making iron, and of the calcining ones. placed in the former (at which time it contains 15 to 45 per cent. of copper) it is crushed in a powerful crusher, then thrown up by means of an elevator into a very large cylinder, 4 to 5 ft. in diameter, in which it is broken up by a revolving impeller. It is internally fitted up with shelves, so that the contents fall from one to the other, being reduced to a fine powder in the process. The impeller is driven by a motor. The technical name of this cylinder is "regulus," the chief object of which is to take out as much of the impurities as possible, which are possible of the sulphur from the regulus, which is one of the ore at its then stage of treatment. Everything that is left in the cylinder is called "regulus," and the regulus having undergone its proper treatment falls out of the cylinder, is lifted up by elevators into an iron bin, which is constantly travelling to latter, at an average value of £40 a ton or a net value of 100, of which, probably, the other £40 are paid for the spot. As mentioned above, the number of men employed is about 100, of which not more than 20 are employed on the smelting works, the rest being by the piece, or so much a ton, and make very good wages. Some of them live on the works, but the majority are in the adjoining townships. In consequence of overproduction, the price of the metal has fallen some 10 per cent. since the time that it was seven or eight years ago. It is, consequently, all the more satisfactory to find that an industry as this so successfully carried on in this district.

THE BULLI EXPLOSION.

EIGHTH DAY.

The sittings of the Synod of the Church of Engl member evidently referred to the resolution passed at last General Synod,—“That the propriety of introducing the revised version into churches be respectfully referred

The Bench of Bishops, and that they be required to observe such action as they in their wisdom may think best." "It had not been as yet thought necessary to take any collection for the relief of the poor, and the Bishop of Exeter, for himself, although he doubted whether he had the power formally to authorize the use of the revised version of the Bible, yet he thought it expedient to permit the clergyman using his discretion in reading from that version on any occasion—being convinced that, as compared with the old version, it was a far more accurate rendering of the original, though it was not so full and so beautiful a style, and that it had especial value in the poetical and prophetic books of the Old Testament, and in the Epistles of the New."

CHURCH DECORATIONS.

Mr. J. B. DURNAN asked, by whose authority were decorations on the communion table and the gifts behind the pulpit placed in St. Andrew's Cathedral during the recent festival.

THE PRESIDENT replied: Under the general authority of the Bishop, and the sanction of the synod by chapter. He also reminded the hon. member that, in decisions of the Ecclesiastical Courts, which the synod had to confirm, it was held that the use of flowers was not a standard of observance, both the legality and appropriateness of crosses as church decorations were expressly asserted.

NEW ORDINANCES.

On the motion of the CHANCELOER (Mr. G. Walker) rules were passed relating to ordinances promoted under the provisions of the 18th and 19th sections of the Act.

provisions of the Sydney By-laws. That the respondents intended to ensure that the procedure of the synod, in regard to such legislation, to that of the Parliament of New South Wales. The code consists of 15 rules which are the first rule of the synod, initiated under the provisions of the Sydney By-laws Church Property Act, 1887, except upon a petition presented with a printed copy of the proposed ordinance annexed, which petition should be signed by six members of the synod, to the effect: "We, the undersigned members of the synod," "The Church Land Committee, to be pointed in the usual manner upon notice, and in accordance with the provisions of the said By-laws, members of the synod." The ninth provision of the said "Every such proposed ordinance shall contain a preamble reciting the circumstances on which such ordinance is founded, and bringing the case within the provisions of the said By-laws, and the committee of the synod, to which the ordinance is sought, and the committee of the synod shall require proof of the allegations contained in the preamble." posed ordinance shall, at their own expense, provide for the printing of a copy of the ordinance for each member of the committee, for the purpose of taking down the evidence adduced before the committee. The committee shall file with the parties in person, or by counsel or solicitor, if it be desired, a copy of the ordinance, together with the evidence taken, and the committee shall think requisite, and decide on all matters at issue between the persons proposing and opposing the ordinance. By the third clause, "If the committee be of opinion that the effect, which shall be fatal to the proposed ordinance; but it be carried that the preamble stand part of the proposed ordinance, and that the ordinance be carried, the committee being taken that no clause be inserted or amendment made foreign to the import of the notice given." And the fourth clause provides that "The committee shall annex to the ordinance a list of the names of the persons who have given the evidence taken before them, and shall furnish a list of all amendments introduced into the proposed ordinance to the committee."

On the motion of the Chancellor, that the members of the church lands committee should consist of the following members:—The Revs. J. D. Langley, A. Yarnold, J. W. Jones, George Jones, and the Hon. J. W. Jones, D.D., J. W. Alford, A. B. Simpson, J. Y. Mills, and J. Walker.

PROPOSED DECREASE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Canon Kinkaid introduced a bill for restricting the number of future synods. The bill, after reciting that it was "expedient to restrict the number of the clergy and representatives of the laity to be summoned to any future synod of the faruro diocesan synod," provided:—1. That the number of representatives of the laity to be summoned to any future synod, except as provided in the 16th constitution, shall not exceed the number of the clergy to be summoned to any future synod shall not be less than one-half the number of the clergy to be summoned to any future synod. 2. That the clergy summoned shall be representatives of the clergy to be chosen in manner hereinafter provided. In moving the second reading, the rev. gentleman pointed out that this was now the 21st year of the synod's existence. Such a bill as he proposed was to be expected to pass. The bill was then read a second time, and was shown during the present sitting. ON ONE OCCASION

[illegible]

Mr. Justice INNIS was bound to say that whilst he recognised the pressing necessity for legislation in that direction, he was not prepared to give the House the impression that he was giving consideration to that subject. The body was reacting too unwisely—unmanageable—and getting out all proportion to the needs of any discipline in regard to the subject. He was sure that the committee referred to would select committee, who might bring up a report before the next session.

Mr. W. J. FOSTER withdrew the amendment, to permit the discussion of the course suggested by Judge INNIS.

Mr. Justice INNIS then moved,—"That the ordinance be referred to the standing committee, with a request that they would prepare and submit a bill to the next session having for its object the reduction of the number of members."

Mr. G. H. COX seconded this amendment.

The Rev. C. F. GARNETT thought that if that order were passed, it might be possible for it to operate so as to prevent the consideration of the subject of the reduction of the number of members.

MR. CLARENCE BURNETT moved that if the amendment were carried it would operate so as to delay any action for at least two years. Whatever they might desire to do would have to be accomplished by legislative enactment passed by Parliament.

Mr. DORRIS said it was evident that the current performance provided for one of the most radical and revolutionary reforms ever proposed to the synod. He felt, however, that it was desirable that some change should be made. He thought it was necessary to seek some sound basis of representation.

Mr. DORRIS was decidedly opposed to any reduction in the lay representatives at the synod. It would also, he thought, be a matter of injury if there were excluded from their councils any members who had change of a cure or residence. The country clergy, he felt, were entitled to be consulted and met with their fellow clergy in the House of Bishops and with the lay should pass. Even on

The first days of the month there were empty chairs in these assemblies. The first 28 years of synodical session should be remembered as the period during which the members of the assembly had no other reasons for passing the bill than had as yet been put forward. During the present assembly they had another reason for turning their backs upon the bill. They ought to have turned more freely than they could the previous year. They had the synod merely been a representative body, so much so that it would have been impossible for them to do otherwise. It is probable that the matter would not be referred to committee. It should be read that day six months ago. I hoped that under no circumstances would we have seen the passage of Canon King.

Mr. E. J. H. KNAPE contended that the whole question was adversus privum.

He gave the vote the amendment proposed by T. George Linn was lost, a modified amendment being carried referring the matter to the standing committee, with instructions to report to the next annual synod.

QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

THE REV. EDWIN ALEXANDER COLVIN, on a question of privilege, referred to a petition presented at the last annual synod from Wood and Auburn. The matter in dispute had already been dealt with by the Bishop, but he noticed in the petition that a statement was made that the Bishop had refused to receive minutes of the parish books. This was a serious charge.

The PRESIDENT said that the rev. gentleman had anticipated what he would have looked upon as a plain shall be given of an election of lay representatives; that names shall be given to the minister of each parish at le 14 days before the day of election; that the names of all the candidates shall be placed conspicuously upon the church door at least ten days before the day of election; that the election shall not commence until 20 electors are assembled.

The course of the discussion, which ensued, considered the amount of opposition was evinced to the ordinance of the synod, on the ground that it had not been shown that there was in existence any great evil which it would remedy. The matter was referred to a committee, who reported that the machinery for election, and as inattention to some of the requirements of the ordinance would inevitably arise, making it impossible to carry out the ordinance, and that the objection to the ordinance was that in the event of the death of a representative to the synod shortly before its session, the parish of which he was a member would be disfranchised before the session because of the requirements of the bill.

The second reading of the ordinance was negatived by a large majority.

CHURCH CENTENIAL FUND.

THE PRESIDENT directed attention to a memorandum in support of a proposed church fund, which was distributed among the members of the synod, and was read and commended to members generally the establishment of such a fund. He quoted from the memorandum statements to the effect that funds had been raised in other churches with reference to it, entailing an annual cost of between £4000 and £5000, which interfered very materially with the other funds of the church, and that it was not true that their financial position was not so dangerous as for their debt was less than a year's average income, but nevertheless for all that it was a very serious burden to the Church. It had been thought that in the centennial year, when so many of our oldest and best members of the Church, and as other nominations, certainly less powerful in numbers as resources than the Church of England, had raised very large sums of money for the same purposes—it had been thought well that the Church of America should make a decided and vigorous effort in the direction of the establishment of a centennial fund. Most undoubtedly their work must not be undertaken with any chance of failure. In fact, it is to be regretted that the Church of America is inopportune because the people had been passing through hard times, he urged that that was a reason which should induce the people in doing their duty to the Church to be more than ordinarily prompt and generous. In his hindrance which had been advanced was that they at this time were suffering from some division and conflict of opinion. With regard to that, he was one of those who believed that their meeting this year in synod, and the Earles were the best opportunity upon which to settle the matter, and do a vast amount of good. (Applause.) If it had shown there they had striven conscientiously, and it had still more shown them the limit of those differences, and whether their own work was to be a mere compromise between the Christian and brotherly love, and a general recognition of the work for their common Master and God. Drawing those who had been moved more closely together (H. 18).

Archdeacon GUNTHER moved,—"1. That, in the opinion of this synod, it is desirable that a vigorous and united effort should be made to establish a continental fund for the relief of the poor of the Empire, and that the Synod should take such measures as he shall see fit to give effect to this resolution, and also request that the Provincial Synod to consider whether it can be recommended to the Provincial Synods of the movement over the whole province by the assent of the various dioceses." He briefly referred to the growth of the population of the Imperial Church, and the variation of the magnitude it had attained, mentioned that the Australian colonies, including New Zealand, there were 2,150,000, 487 clergy, and upwards of 1500 churches, and that the population of the United Kingdom, including the Channel Islands, was 25,000,000, 10,000 clergy, and 11,000 churches and 90,000 scholars.

Judge GLOUCESTER moved as an amendment,—"That it is the opinion of this synod that it is commendable the completion of the first century of the Church of England in this colony by the institution of an enduring memorial by which this generation may show to succeeding ages its devotion to the service of God and its gratitude to the Lord has hitherto blessed us. 2. That to give to the members of the church in this colony an opportunity of contributing to the service of God, and of offering willingly to the support of the cause, to be called "The Church Centennial Fund," should be established and vested in governors appointed as the Provincial Council, and that the said fund should be managed by them, should never be diminished, and that the annual income therefrom should be devoted to the part payment of the principal of the said debt, and to the support of the said Province, and to such other purposes as the Provincial Council may hereafter determine. 4. That the resolutions be referred to the Provincial Council, and that the said Provincial Council be and they are hereby invited to join in the reference.

The formerly meeting of members of the New South Wales Trades and Labour Council was held at the Swan and Two Neck Hotel, last night. The president, Mr. J. P. Mitnane, occupied the chair. The following societies were represented: the Amalgamated Tailors' and Dressmakers' Union, the Amalgamated Boot and Shoe Trade Union, the Amalgamated Cordwainers' and Shoemakers' Union, the Amalgamated Hatters, Coopers and Binders' Union, the Amalgamated Milliners' Union, the Amalgamated Typographical Association, and Tobacco Operatives. A delegation of members of the New South Wales Seafarers' Union was also present.

Association interviewed the council with the following questions: "What was your respect to testing the legality of the proposed distribution of the Building Disaster Relief Fund. Mr. Easton, a member of the committee, spoke at considerable length, and notified that the committee was very busy with the work of the fund, and that they were not in a position to take up the question of the legality of the proposed distribution. The president stated that prior to giving an answer consideration would be necessary. Mr. J. E. West said that it was a fact that certain steps had been already taken with reference to the legal and financial side, and the chairman undertook that the issue should be reported to the secretary of the Secular Association. The election of officers for the ensuing six months resulted as follows: President, Mr. C. Brown; vice president, Mr. J. P. Minnie; general secretary, Mr. T. Symons; financial secretary, Mr. H. Doakin; executive committee, Messrs. C. Julius, J. Cronin, R. Forbes; a committee of five, Messrs. J. Cronin, R. Forbes, J. Minnie, C. Jones, W. Westman, E. Armstrong, T. Forbes, G. Williams, and R. Boxall. A letter was read from the Melbourne Trades Hall committee, notifying an intention to hold a "sear" on the 22nd inst. The committee were being asked to give an answer, and Mr. Easton's name was being taken meantime in the direction of procuring statistics. Several matters of detail were discussed, some accounts were passed for payment, and the meeting adjourned.

THE RERADOS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir.—The controversy upon the above has reached a new and interesting phase. The chapter have decided to replace the central panel with any other suitable and worthily executed piece of sculpture illustrative of some fact in the manifestation of our Lord, if anyone can be found willing to present such to the cathedral. It is not easy to see how this concession can calm the fears of the anti-reradosists, or how they can logically close with the proposal. Mr. Foster committed on Germans during a free fight on the Emperor's birthday, or for robberies on plantations. The Emperor's birthday was March 22nd; the alleged robberies must have extended over many months, if not several years; the squadron had been some time in Apia and no demands made; and yet on August 24 this heavy fine is levied, and troops landed to enforce it without delay. The inference appears to be, either that there are reasons of which we are at present in ignorance, which may justify the action of the German Commodore, or that the fine levied and so summarily enforced is simply a pretext for an armed occupation. There is, of course, another solution of the difficulty, if we presume that the Commodore is only carrying out the instructions of his Government, and that these instructions are based upon some mutual understanding of the three Powers represented in the Conference at Washington. The difficulty, however, in accepting this solution lies in the fact that it would not, under those conditions, be necessary for Germany to resort to the extreme measure of enforcing a fine for actions which have not yet been investigated, or to declare war against the reigning King, and acknowledge another in his stead. We cannot suppose that the Imperial Government would allow us to remain in ignorance of such agreement being entered into with Germany and America on a question in which we are so deeply interested, with the knowledge that action on the matter would be at once taken by Germany as one of the interested Powers. The question which would then present itself would not be to whether Germany, England, or America should govern Samoa, but whether we in these colonies had received that fair consideration to which we are entitled.

As the matter presents itself to us with our imperfect knowledge of the facts, it certainly appears as if action had been taken which was intended to forestall some anticipated resolution of the Conference, or that information has been received that the Conference has failed to arrive at any definite agreement, and so Germany has decided to act independently. It is well understood that the Imperial Government was favourable to the recommendation of Sir J. B. Thurston in the report presented by him: "That the only satisfactory mode of preventing the peace of the islands from being disturbed by conflicting native claims to the throne, and of securing the interests of the three civilised nations on an equal footing, would be found in an agreement between Great Britain, Germany, and the United States, that one of them should, as the mandatory of the other two, exercise for a limited period (to be renewed if it should be determined at its expiration) supervision and control over native affairs in the islands." This recommendation Her Majesty's Government was prepared to advocate, and it is, therefore, difficult to imagine what complications can have arisen to justify or to necessitate the extreme action now taken by Germany. From the information before us at present, it is improbable that the Imperial Government is, either directly or by the action of its representative at the Washington Conference, in any way a party to the proceeding. If so, we may fairly assume that on the failure of the commission the German Government has decided to act. The question will then naturally be considered from very different standpoints by the several parties interested. The Imperial Government have never manifested any desire whatever to assume a protectorate over Samoa. On the contrary, they have resolutely declined to do so, and may naturally enough feel relieved if the matter is thus summarily settled.

Fiji has not proved the great success which was anticipated, and a very large party in England believe that it is not the wisest or best policy to increase either the territory or the responsibility of the nation. We in the colonies look at the matter from another standpoint, and there are not wanting amongst us many who object to the establishment of any foreign colony in the Pacific, as adverse to Australian interests. It is difficult to argue against a sentiment; but it would be much more difficult to prove that colonial interests would be in any way endangered or affected prejudicially by the establishment of a German Protectorate in Samoa. On the contrary, it may be safely predicted that, under a strong and efficient Government, by which all wars would be at once prevented, the trade of Samoa with these colonies would be very much increased. There is, however, an uneasy feeling existing as to the action which may be taken in this matter by the Imperial Government, owing principally to past proceedings in New Guinea and in the New Hebrides. Then there is the view which will be taken of the matter by the natives themselves. There is little doubt that most of the Samoans have for years been favourable to British influence, as manifested by them in their petition to the QUEEN. TAMASER has not done much for Germany, nor is it likely that the Germans are at all interested in any claim he may have to the throne. He is simply useful to them in the work in which they have engaged. Samoa as a group of islands has not hitherto occupied a large share of public attention. It has long been a field for missionary enterprise, and was indeed one of the first groups occupied. It is a large and important collection of islands, lying in the direct line of communication from Australia to America. It is the centre of trading operations in that part of the Pacific, and will no doubt become increasingly important as its resources are more fully known. These colonies will naturally look with great interest on the further development of the action taken by the German Commodore.

The proposed Centennial Fund of the Church of England came up in the Synod last night. Archdeacon GUNTER moved a resolution expressing the desirability of establishing the fund, and Judge DOCKEN followed with an amendment which included the object to which the fund should be devoted, that is mainly the erection of churches in the diocese, and for such other things as the Provincial Synod should decide, the fund being invested in that body. The desirability of the fund no one interested in the Church of England would doubt, but the scheme is the next question. There should be no vagueness in the plan proposed. The objects mentioned to which the fund might be applied are practical and worthy. Among those which are thought important are, the wiping out of parochial debts, the establishment of a loan fund, the enlargement of the Cathedral, and the increasing of the already formed widows' and orphan's education, mission, and pension funds. Mr. FIDDERSTON, whose letter we published on Monday last, suggests very sensibly that the scheme be a provincial one; that half the money be applied to paying off Church debts in the diocese, and the remainder be divided among the dioceses individually. It is generally supposed that persons are impractical people, and that they live in the clouds; but when these first propositions regarding the Centennial Fund are placed alongside the Government proposals for the centennial memorials for the colony, they appear at a marvellous advantage. We have miserable Parliament buildings and a wretched Supreme Court edifice, but it did not occur to the sensible laity in the Assembly to connect the re-building of these structures with the Centennial year. We have instead a "State House" proposed, which, like a white elephant, its promoters can scarcely find any use to which it can be put. The clergy, on the contrary, know that the most enduring memorial is that which will appeal practically as well as sentimentally to the people who come after as well as those who memorialise now. It can well be wished that the Fund proposed by the Synod will prove a success. It would, however, be a bold prophecy to say that such will be the case. The PRIMATE, in his able remarks on the subject, said that unless there was a certainty of success, it was better not to attempt it. This is the reasonable way to look at the matter. The public is not moved, unfortunately, to give liberally save at some crisis, when excitement runs high. Generosity among us is not a deep-seated thing. It is subject to fits and starts, and it is by no means easy to speculate on the fit occurring at the proper time. The Treasurer has been working most enthusiastically, it is not progressing as it should, and yet there seems no reason why this should be so. The object to which it is to be devoted is one worthy of the gifts of all generous people, and it is launched at an auspicious time, still it languishes. We hope the Church Centennial Fund may be better, but the chances are not very great.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

It will be seen from one of our cablegrams this morning that the pastorate of the Scots' Church, Collins-street, Melbourne, has been offered to the Rev. James Barclay, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Montreal. Mr. Barclay accepted his present position in Canada three years ago at a salary of 7000 dollars a year, and is considered one of the most scholarly and eloquent preachers in the Scotch Church. He formerly held an important position in the Presbytery of Glasgow.

The English mails per P. and O. Company's steamer Roma, dated London, August 5, will be due here to-morrow (Saturday), in time for delivery at about 2.30 p.m.

The Cabinet met yesterday afternoon and conferred, we are given to understand, on matters in connection with the proposed meeting of the Executive Council at 10.15 this morning, in order to dispose of some urgent business previous to the departure of the Premier (Sir Henry Parkes) this afternoon for Melbourne, en route to Adelaide.

Yesterday Sir Henry Parkes received the following telegram from Adelaide: "At a large representative meeting, comprising the Chief Justice, President of the Legislative Council, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mr. J. P. Abbott, M.L.A., and leading colonists of all classes, you are respectfully invited to a public banquet on Tuesday or Wednesday evening next, whichever most convenient to you. (Signed) R. BARR SMITH, chairman; J. H. SYMONS, G.O., hon. secretary. To this the Premier replied, 'Much gratified by your invitation, and accept for Tuesday evening.' Sir Henry will take his departure for Melbourne by the express train this afternoon. To-morrow he will confer with the principal members of the Victorian Government, and on Sunday will be the guest of Sir Henry and Lady Loch at Government House. On Monday he will set out for Adelaide, where, arriving the following day, he will be entertained at luncheon in the Exhibition Building by the Governor (Sir William Robinson) and will be present. In the evening a banquet, at which the leading men of South Australia will be present, will be given in his honour; and on Wednesday, the day of his departure, Sir Henry will be entertained at luncheon by the Ministers of State. During his stay the hon. gentleman will be the guest of Sir William Robinson."

Sir HENRY PARKES and Colonel Roberts visited the site of the proposed new rifle butt, beyond the Hand-Asylum, late yesterday afternoon. The present rifle butt is in a position which has been complained of, both as being dangerous to the public and objectionable. In the case of the new site there can be no danger whatever, for the rifle will fire right into a hill.

At the New Masonic Hall last night Mr. J. M. Toohy, M.L.A., addressed the constituents of South Sydney at considerable length upon the subject of "The Press, Parliament, and Protection." There was a large audience, and the speaker was well received. When the Governor (Sir William Robinson) will be present. In the evening a banquet, at which the leading men of South Australia will be present, will be given in his honour; and on Wednesday, the day of his departure, Sir Henry will be entertained at luncheon by the Ministers of State. During his stay the hon. gentleman will be the guest of Sir William Robinson."

The tramway line to Sans Souci will be opened for public traffic to-morrow without any official ceremony. The line will run in conjunction with the trains to and from Kogarah, and in addition to passengers will carry goods the same as done by the Camden trains. The line passes through a picturesque country, and it is anticipated that the public will patronise it very largely, especially in the summer months.

This arbitration case of M'Sherry v. Commissioner for Railways was brought to a termination yesterday by the arbitrators agreeing upon the award. This, we are informed, is fixed at £20,100.

In Banco yesterday judgment was delivered in the appeal Strickland v. McCulloch, and defendant's motion to make absolute the writ nisi for a new trial was discharged with costs. In the case Shaw v. Scaddon the appeal was not further continued, as the case was settled. In the Jury Court yesterday, his Honor the Chief Justice announced that he would this morning sit in the Full Court to take the usual Friday business. This morning, and on Monday also, from half-past 9 o'clock until 10 o'clock, Probate will be taken. On Monday and Tuesday next the Chief Justice will sit in Divorce, and on Tuesday will proceed to the ordinary cases on the Jury and Banco lists.

Two sittings of the Central Criminal Court were continued at the Darlinghurst Courthouse yesterday, before his Honor Mr. Justice Stephen. Mr. Barton appeared on behalf of the Crown. A man named John Samuel Pitt was found guilty of manslaughter, and was recommended for sentence. Edwin Carter, who was found guilty of horse-stealing, was sentenced to six years' penal servitude. The sittings of the Court will terminate to-day.

Yesterday there was an agreeable change in the weather. The wind, which blew hard from the westward on the previous day, shifted in the morning to S.W., from which quarter there was a fresh breeze during the remainder of the day. The sky was clear, and there was a crispness in the atmosphere which rendered outdoor exercise enjoyable. Generally fine and cold weather was reported from the country districts.

The Union Company's steamship Wakatipu, Captain Wheeler, was 7 days 10 hours out from Wellington at 1 o'clock this morning, and some uneasiness was felt at her non-arrival. There is no doubt that she has encountered the full force of the strong westerly gales which have been prevailing for several days past, but even this is regarded as scarcely sufficient to account for her protracted passage, which is the longest she has made for two or three years past. Some accident may have occurred to her machinery; and, if this be so, her progress under sail would be very slow.

Ten one hundred and twenty-second quarterly meeting of the Municipal Council of Sydney will be held at noon to-day. Some 38 notices of motion appear on the paper, the most important of which are two standing in the name of the Hon. Mr. H. H. Hall, designed to provide a suitable memorial of the centenary year. He first proposes that a deputation of the council should wait upon the Premier to request the Government to remove the Central Police Courts and watchhouse, and throw the site open for a memorial of the centenary under the auspices of the Corporation; while the second makes provision for borrowing a sum not exceeding £250,000 for the construction of memorial buildings for market purposes, on the site of the George-street Markets, and also for borrowing a sum not exceeding £150,000 for the purchase of a site, and the erection of new markets in the city. The usual quarterly luncheon will be given by the Mayor at 1.15 p.m.

The Theatre Royal, Exeter, at the burning of which, according to our cable messages, there has been an appalling loss of life, was now, quite a new building, and was opened in November last year. Between two and three years ago the old Theatre of Exeter was burned down, and after that catastrophe the site of the theatre was changed. The old site was of such a character that the exits from the building were considered to be very defective, and a new site was obtained, where the most approved means of ingress and egress could be provided. Moreover, to ensure the utmost completeness both in the design and in the execution, the new building was entrusted to the hands of a London architect, whose specialty was theatre construction. The approach to the gallery was to some extent difficult, for there was a long narrow passage, with an awkward turn, and in this passage there were some steps to ascend. In a panic the passage, and particularly the steps, would undoubtedly prove dangerous. The theatre was capable of providing accommodation for 2000 persons.

The Synod of the Church of England continued its sittings yesterday. A resolution was adopted which will have the effect of assimilating the procedure of the synod in respect to ordination to that of the Parliament in respect to certain bills. The propriety of restricting the number of clergy and lay representatives to be summoned to future diocesan synods was discussed, and eventually the matter was referred to the standing committee to bring up a report to-morrow.

The annual meeting of the Church of England in connection with the establishment of a Church Centenary Fund was held at the residence of Mr. M. L. E. Eves, M.L.A., on the occasion of his marriage. The committee of the church exhibited their appreciation of Mr. M. L. E. Eves' services by presenting him with a handsome card-server, together with a half-dozen table rings. The articles were elaborate, chased, and were accompanied by a framed illuminated address. Mr. H. W. McKern, on behalf of the committee, presented Mr. M. L. E. Eves with the gift. The latter gentleman, in well-chosen terms, thanked his friends for their kindness towards him, and expressed the hope that the Free Church of England at Kogarah would continue to prosper until the worshippers were able to have a settled pastor.

Members of the Prince Alfred Yacht Club held their annual meeting last night in Campagnoni's rooms, Pitt-street. Mr. Milford, commodore, presided over a good attendance. The secretary's report, giving a review of the past season's operations, was adopted, together with the treasurer's balance-sheet. Officers were elected for the ensuing season, and the meeting separated after approving the length and sail area measurement for competing tonnage.

A very pleasant ceremony took place at the quarterly meeting of Lodge Sir Walter Scott, No. 703, S.O. of Granville, on the 8th instant. Brother J. M. Gill, the late Master, was presented with a P.M. Jewels by the members of the lodge, as a mark of their esteem. The recipient made a suitable reply. A large number of visiting brethren were present on the occasion. The jewel was very much admired, and was from the establishment of Mr. Wm. Kerr, of George-street, Sydney.

Yesterday afternoon an exhibition of flowers (both wild and exotic) and of fancy goods was opened in the Masonic Hall, St. Leonards. The formal ceremony of opening was to have been performed by Sir Henry Parkes, but owing to his unavoidable absence, on account of pressure of public business, a substitute was found in the person of Mr. L. E. Eves, M.L.A., who in the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen declared the exhibition open. The hall was very nicely decorated with trees, shrubs, pot plants, and flowers of many kinds. In the centre was a flower-decked table with exotic and all around the room, stalls, displaying curious designs worked in native flowers, ferns, mosses, and evergreens in great luxuriance. The proceeds from the sale of flowers and fancy goods is to be devoted to the St. Leonards and Willoughby Wesleyan Parsonages. The show will remain open to-day and to-morrow.

A Dramatic and Literary Society has lately been formed among the youth of Darlinghurst. The second ordinary meeting for the place last Tuesday evening, and was passed in debate.

The monthly general meeting of the Engineering Association of New South Wales was held at the society's rooms, O'Connell-street, last evening. The chair was occupied by the president, Mr. Cruickshank, and there was a large attendance. The principal business of the evening was the discussion which took place on a paper written by Mr. Norman Salte on the "Railway brakes." The speaker, Mr. Salte, when it was further adjourned until next Thursday.

A tea meeting and concert were held at St. George's, Hurstville, on Wednesday evening, in aid of the fund for building a new church. About 800 persons attended. In the absence of the incumbent, who was unavoidably detained by attending at the synod, Mr. J. H. Walker presided. A programme of great variety was gone through, which gave much satisfaction.

The annual tea meeting and concert in connection with St. Bartholomew's Church, Pyrmont, was held in Mission House, on Wednesday evening. The hall was well filled by persons from the different parts of the city and suburbs. The concert, which was presided over by the Rev. George Middleton, was under the conductorship of Mr. Pungelly, who, with his numerous choir, gave the parishioners a hearty musical treat. Mr. Alexander Keith, M.L.A., one of the members of the district, in a few encouraging remarks, defended the Bible and the Church from the attacks of the infidels, and in a few well-chosen words, exhorted one and all to work harmoniously for the common good, especially in the mission work, with which the parish of St. Bartholomew has been so largely associated. He said it was a happy event for the Church that the place upon which was now built a mission hall for the worship of Almighty God was, not many years ago, the rendezvous for cock-fighting, and lawlessness of every kind. A vote of thanks was heartily accorded to all who took part in getting up the entertainment.

A public meeting was held last evening in the Ashfield School of Arts to take further steps towards petitioning the Government to construct a tramway from Ashfield to Drummoyne. Mr. J. W. Morley, Mayor of Ashfield, occupied the chair, and having read the advertisement convening the meeting, called upon Mr. J. T. Walker to move the first resolution, which was: "That it is the desire of the inhabitants of the district, that a tramway be constructed from Ashfield to Drummoyne." In the progress of the resolution, Mr. Wilshire stated that a tramway was necessary, if only to open up this great country. As in America tramways were constructed to feed the trunk or main tramways, so here tramways should be constructed to feed the railways. Mr. Allen, of Drummoyne, seconded the motion, and upon its being put to the meeting it was carried unanimously. Mr. A. Thompson, of Rosedale, proposed, and Mr. R. E. Scott, alderman, of Canterbury, seconded, the following resolution, which was also carried: "That the chairman be requested to sign the foregoing resolution, and that the Mayor and the members for Canterbury wait upon and present it to the Minister for Works." Mr. J. H. Carruthers, one of the members of the district, supported the proposition, and concluded by proposing a vote of thanks to the chairman. Mr. W. L. Davis, M.L.A., also addressed the meeting, which throughout was most unanimous in its desire to obtain the proposed tramway.

A rustic meeting of the residents of Sherwood, Goughtown, and Marylands was held in the temporary schoolroom, Lucas-street, on Wednesday evening, to take steps to urge upon the Government the necessity for the erection of a Public school in the locality. The Mayor of Prospect and Sherwood (Mr. John Booth) presided, and among others present were Aldermen Hollier, Jones, and Elliott. The chairman and several other speakers addressed the meeting. It was pointed out that a site for a school had been resumed in Lucas-street long before the school building now in course of erection in Pitt-street was contemplated, which is private property, has to accommodate double the number of pupils for which it was intended, and that the attendance would be still much larger were it not for the fact that the pupils of both sexes must necessarily be taught together in the one confined room. On the motion of Mr. S. Sweeney, seconded by Mr. S. Playford, a committee was appointed to interview the members for the district, generally to promote the movement, and at the instance of Mr. J. B. Price, seconded by Mr. Munnell, the Mayor, Aldermen Elliott and Jones, and Messrs. Sweeney, Playford, and Price, were chosen as a deputation to wait upon the Minister for Works in reference to the matter. The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the Mayor and aldermen for their attendance.

The monthly meeting of the Paramatta Hospital Committee was held on Wednesday evening, Mr. F. T. W. H. Phillips, president, in the absence of the president, Archdeacon Gunther. Accounts and salaries, amounting to a total of £94 18s. 4d., were passed for payment. The matron superintendent's report showed that there were 18 patients in the institution on the 31st July; 16 had been admitted since 1st June, 16 were discharged, and one had died, leaving 10 patients under treatment on the 31st August. A letter was received from the secretary of the Sydney Yacht Club, offering to give an entertainment in aid of the hospital funds. The secretary was instructed to thank the club for their kind offer, but to point out that the committee could not take any responsibility in connection with the matter. A letter was also received from Miss Anderson, the matron superintendent, requesting the committee to relieve her of the duties of the institution. It was decided to hold a special meeting of the committee at an early date to consider the resignation of the superintendent, a report from a sub-committee received at the previous meeting, the erection of a new hospital, and other matters of an important nature.

Our Paramatta correspondent writes:—"Considerable regret is expressed here at the announcement that Mr. J. White, who has been in charge of the local telegraph office for five years, is about to leave for his home in consequence of having received an appointment in the head office. Mr. White has proved himself a most zealous, efficient, and obliging officer during the time he has been at Paramatta."

At about noon yesterday a man named Patrick Byrne, 40 years of age, residing at No. 104, Pyrmont Bridge-road, Pyrmont, dropped dead in Sussex-street whilst engaged in loading a van with iron girders. The body was at once taken to a constable by the residence of Dr. Milford, where life was pronounced to be extinct, and was then removed to the South Sydney Morgue. It appears that the man had lately been under treatment for heart disease, and that on leaving his home yesterday morning he remarked to his mother that he "felt more like going to his bed than to his work." Information of the man's death has been communicated to the Acting Coroner.

The Gosford will flower and fern show will be opened to-day, and will continue open to-morrow and Monday. A special steamer (Charlotte Fenwick) leaves No. 4 Jetty at 10 a.m., starting for the return trip at 3 p.m.

This following is the order of musical service at St. Andrew's Cathedral, this afternoon, 3.30:—Nunc Dimittis, (Stegall); in G; anthem, "What are these?" (Stainer). The Permanent Artillery Band, under the direction of Bandmaster M. Devery, will perform the following programme of music in Wynyard-square, this afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock:—Overture, "The Ruler of Spirits" (Weber); valse, "Immortal Love" (Strauss); selection, "Best of the Best" (Bellini); quadrille, "Mikado" (Buccon); humorous songs (vocal); "The Jolly Cobblers" (Lutz); galop, "Madcap" (Relle); waltz, "Nellie of the Ball."

In reference to a Dalhousie program in the Herald of Monday last, stating that the Minister for Justice was received at the new pulp by Mr. Low, the contractor, on the occasion of his visit of inspection, Mr. W. Smith desires it to be understood that he is the contractor, and that Mr. Low is his partner.

This following is the report of the Benevolent Asylum for the week ending September 7:—Admitted, 2 women, 1 child; deaths, 0; cures, 0; discharges, 2 women, 5 children; remaining in the house, 95 women, 136 children; total, 231. Provisions distributed—1998 loaves bread, 1252b. flour, 555lb. meat, 454lb. sugar, 1541b. tea, 941b. soap, 151b. rice, 47lb. butter, 70lb. cheese. Fresh applications for relief, 13; cases reported by the inspector, 46. In 28 cases the relief was discontinued, and in 10 cases the relief was discontinued. The total number of cases relieved was 478.

resolution, Mr. Wilshire stated that a tramway was necessary, if only to open up this great country. As in America tramways were constructed to feed the trunk or main tramways, so here tramways should be constructed to feed the railways. Mr. Allen, of Drummoyne, seconded the motion, and upon its being put to the meeting it was carried unanimously. Mr. A. Thompson, of Rosedale, proposed, and Mr. R. E. Scott, alderman, of Canterbury, seconded, the following resolution, which was also carried: "That the chairman be requested to sign the foregoing resolution, and that the Mayor and the members for Canterbury wait upon and present it to the Minister for Works." Mr. J. H. Carruthers, one of the members of the district, supported the proposition, and concluded by proposing a vote of thanks to the chairman. Mr. W. L. Davis, M.L.A., also addressed the meeting, which throughout was most unanimous in its desire to obtain the proposed tramway.

A rustic meeting of the residents of Sherwood, Goughtown, and Marylands was held in the temporary schoolroom, Lucas-street, on Wednesday evening, to take steps to urge upon the Government the necessity for the erection of a Public school in the locality. The Mayor of Prospect and Sherwood (Mr. John Booth) presided, and among others present were Aldermen Hollier, Jones, and Elliott. The chairman and several other speakers addressed the meeting. It was pointed out that a site for a school had been resumed in Lucas-street long before the school building now in course of erection in Pitt-street was contemplated, which is private property, has to accommodate double the number of pupils for which it was intended, and that the attendance would be still much larger were it not for the fact that the pupils of both sexes must necessarily be taught together in the one confined room. On the motion of Mr. S. Sweeney, seconded by Mr. S. Playford, a committee was appointed to interview the members for the district, generally to promote the movement, and at the instance of Mr. J. B. Price, seconded by Mr. Munnell, the Mayor, Aldermen Elliott and Jones, and Messrs. Sweeney, Playford, and Price, were chosen as a deputation to wait upon the Minister for Works in reference to the matter. The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the Mayor and aldermen for their attendance.

The monthly meeting of the Paramatta Hospital Committee was held on Wednesday evening, Mr. F. T. W. H. Phillips, president, in the absence of the president, Archdeacon Gunther. Accounts and salaries, amounting to a total of £94 18s. 4d., were passed for payment. The matron superintendent's report showed that there were 18 patients in the institution on the 31st July; 16 had been admitted since 1st June, 16 were discharged, and one had died, leaving 10 patients under treatment on the 31st August. VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, THURSDAY.
In the Legislative Assembly to-day, the whole sitting was devoted to the consideration of the Estimates. The departments of the Attorney-General, Minister for Justice, and the Treasurer were taken, and good progress was made. On the Budget, attention was called to the necessity of making provision to meet much larger attacking force than was contemplated 10 years ago. The Premier said the Council of Defence was considering the subject of largely increasing the force in the event of war. The House adjourned till Tuesday.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, THURSDAY.
